

REMARKS

Claims 2 and 4-6 are pending in this application, of which claims 2 and 4-5 have been amended and claim 6 is newly-added.

The Examiner has maintained all of the prior art rejections of claims 1-2 and 4-5 from the previous Office Action.

Applicants respectfully traverse these rejections.

The Examiner has cited column 3, lines 17-20 of EP '325 for disclosing a credit number provided by the user to a secure transaction server 19, and the Examiner has urged that it is well-known that the credit “number” can come in the form of a credit card. The Examiner presented a similar argument regarding WO '617.

Even assuming, arguendo, that this is true, EP '325 discloses that a transaction is initiated over an open communication network between a user and a remotely located server, and subsequently, the communication between a user and a remotely located server is discontinued and new communication is established between a user and an isolated server for the transaction. It concerns only a single transaction. Meanwhile, in the present invention, either the private line or the commercial line is selected according to the kind of the transaction. A transaction through the private line and transaction through the commercial line are different from each other.

None of the cited references teaches this feature.

Accordingly, claim 1 has been canceled and replaced with claim 6 reciting this feature, and the prior art rejections should be withdrawn.
